

Is Centrex holding you back?

- Is your system at capacity or unable to meet the needs of your Digital Transformation plans or projects?
- Is your phone system keeping you from getting the most out of your employees' productivity?
- Have you integrated conferencing, mobility support, and other applications?
- Are you experiencing update delays due to lack of replacement equipment?
- Do you have difficulty providing equipment to new hires?
- Are you having trouble giving your employees the tools they need when working remotely or on the road?

If you answered 'yes' to any of these questions, you're not alone.

It may be time to consider Cloud-based Unified Communications (UC) to transform your communications.

Many of today's businesses offer mobile and remote working capabilities to drive more productivity from their workforce.

UC has been growing rapidly in every business segment, and worldwide year over year. If you are not part of this trend, it could have implications on your competitive position with your industry or business sector.

Leveraging the capabilities of UC, with a partner you can trust, is within your reach. Now may be the perfect time to do that.

Verizon Virtual Communications Express and its technology partner, BroadSoft, can help you seamlessly migrate to UC, with the right Unified Communications Solutions that fit the needs of your business and brings you closer to your Digital Transformation aspirations.
