

Introducing ThingSpace IoT Marketplace: The easy way to build and manage your IoT solution

Flyer

Technology is creating new sources of insight, unlocking business improvements and opening new markets to organizations of all sizes. In particular, the ability to build a complete solution quickly, with the many devices that make up the Internet of Things (IoT) can offer big business benefits.

Yet when it comes to finding, activating and managing your IoT devices and solutions, you want a digital experience that simplifies, not complicates. Whether you are a developer, a small- or medium-sized business, or a large organization with focused needs, you can use ThingSpace IoT Marketplace to start building your solution. The marketplace lets you find, buy and activate devices quickly in a DIY way, as well as manage your IoT solution, all through an easy-to-use website.

ThingSpace IoT Marketplace lets you set up devices and services in just minutes, with all devices connected to America's most awarded network. Cellular connectivity allows the creation of solutions that are secure and scalable, with a range of speed and latency options on a network with nationwide coverage. You can build with the technology that works best for your use case.

ThingSpace IoT Marketplace opens the door to Verizon's ThingSpace IoT platform and the ThingSpace Services suite. It provides individuals and business owners with flexible, individualized device and solution management, combining both a dashboard and a digital workbench into a single interface.

Key benefits:

- Frictionless purchase experience—pay with a credit card and get started immediately
- Easy-to-use self-service portal to get you started on your IoT journey
- Single place to find and purchase your devices and solutions
- Easy end-to-end purchase and activation in minutes, allowing you to focus on your solution
- Access the ThingSpace IoT platform to activate, manage and expand your devices and solution
- Connect to the best network in the nation that is 5G ready

ThingSpace IoT Marketplace is a modern digital portal that offers you the flexibility you need to start on your IoT journey. It leverages the benefits of our secure and scalable connectivity and the features offered by the ThingSpace IoT platform to help you easily find devices, and build and manage your IoT solution.

Build your IoT solution today >