

Top 4 reasons to choose Zoom Video Conferencing from Verizon

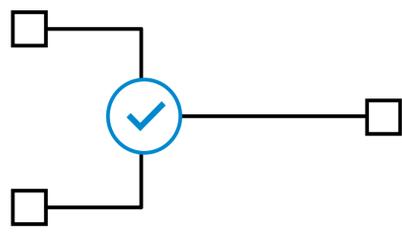

Zoom Video Conferencing from Verizon helps bring teams together to send productivity skyrocketing. Here are the top four reasons to choose the collaboration solution for your growing business.

1 You need a budget maker, not a budget breaker.

You're on the hunt for great value. To save on travel costs and reduce usage charges for audio conferencing calls. To leverage existing video and conference-room investments for greater return on investment (ROI). And to find the best price plus a superior experience for your employees, partners and customers.

2 You want connecting to be easy.

At home, your team finds it easy to connect with family and friends wherever they may be. They want that same hassle-free experience at work, even when they're using more robust video-conferencing systems.

3 You need flexibility.

You want a single solution that supports the impromptu team meeting while they're on the road, as well as a webinar with video, voice and screen sharing for up to 50,000 attendees. Plus, the solution works with your existing business applications, so you can share key content among your teams, or schedule and join meetings from your existing email or calendar app.

4 You want a proven solution with great support.

Combine Zoom Video Conferencing's simplicity with proven, reliable audio conferencing and 24/7 customer service support from Verizon, and you have a solution built for success. Plus, simple tools make it easy to deploy and manage the solution, while robust reporting gives you plenty of insight into utilization and other trends.

The good news? You get all of that and more with Verizon.

Zoom Video Conferencing from Verizon is an all-in-one conferencing and collaboration solution. It combines the video conferencing simplicity of Zoom with Verizon's robust audio-conferencing to make it all easy and affordable. It's delivered on a reliable cloud platform, so you'll have all the tools you need to bring teams together and boost productivity. Plus, you have the trusted support and reliability you've come to expect with Verizon. And a cost-effective foundation to support your business growth.
