

Comprehensive mobility management solutions

Solution brief

Help your employees simply and securely work using practically any device, anytime, anywhere.

verizon[✓]

Mobility can transform the way you do business. It gives you the flexibility for your teams to work from wherever and whenever it takes to get the job done. But arming your mobile workforce with the tools and network access they need can be complex and time-consuming. So instead of focusing efforts on your core business, valuable resources are spent just supporting and managing your mobile workforce. To help you stay productive and focused on what matters most, we've partnered with Honeywell Enterprise Mobility to offer a comprehensive set of solutions that will help you better manage every phase of your mobility life cycle – from deployment to security management.

Speed up device deployment while reducing risk.

As an experienced managed mobility services (MMS) provider, Honeywell can streamline mobility managements. Honeywell Enterprise Mobility offers a full range of planning, deployment, support and management services, so you can implement your mobility solutions faster, while reducing risk. And with end-to-end consulting and global fulfillment capabilities, you can get that competitive edge you've been looking for. When you choose our Device Deployment solution, we'll:

- Receive and test your mobility devices
- Warehouse your mobility devices
- Tag and label mobility assets
- Configure your mobile device management (MDM)
- Activate wireless services and load apps onto devices
- Manage your device settings and accessories
- Ship devices to your employees

Honeywell Enterprise Mobility offers a full range of planning, deployment, support and management services, so you can implement your mobility solutions faster, while reducing risk.

Give your road warriors the support they need.

Your mobile employees can only do their jobs and stay productive out in the field if they have access to the on-demand support they need. With Honeywell Helpdesk Support, your mobile workforce will have 24/7 access to experts who are prepared to help resolve a wide variety of issues, including end-user hardware, software, applications and connectivity problems.

Don't let a broken device break your productivity.

Accidents happen. You may not know where or when, but you can be sure that at some point, one of the devices that powers your mobile workforce will break. When it happens, you'll want to get them back to work as quickly as possible. Honeywell Enterprise Mobility has created its Mobile Device Depot solution for that very reason. To help you reduce downtime and improve efficiency, we:

- Manage a spare-device pool, so there are plenty of replacements on hand
- Replace your broken devices overnight
- Take back inoperable devices
- Inspect, dispose of or recycle devices on your behalf
- Manage your device warranties and accessories

Leave the management headache to us.

One of the benefits of mobilizing your workforce is allowing employees to work from anywhere, using the devices they want. While that makes things much easier for your employees, it adds complexity to the management side, as you have to monitor and support a diverse mix of devices and carriers. And with new security threats emerging every day, combined with the rapid pace of mobility innovation, that complexity just keeps increasing.

Let Honeywell Enterprise Mobility handle the complexity for you. With our Secure Mobile Device Management Administration solution, we'll manage the implementation, procurement and administration of best-in-class MDM, mobile application management (MAM) and mobile content management (MCM) solutions to ease oversight and minimize risk. That includes administering users, wiping and locking devices, controlling mobile policies, troubleshooting devices, and managing your apps, versions and licenses.

Perform at your best with mobility intelligence.

To make the right decision, you need the right information. To help you understand how your mobility performance measures up, you need Sakon, a cloud-based mobile product provider. As a separate but complementary solution to Honeywell Enterprise Mobility, the Sakon platform can measure the mobility performance of all your deployed devices, and provide insight into the stability of your mobile environment and help-desk incidents. That way, you have the intelligence you need to assess areas that need improvement and make future investments.

With Honeywell Helpdesk Support, your mobile workforce will have 24/7 access to experts who are prepared to help resolve a wide variety of issues, including end-user hardware, software, applications and connectivity problems.

Why Verizon

We know that great alliances mean great results for our customers. Which is why we team up with companies like Honeywell. By combining Honeywell Enterprise Mobility solutions with the nation's fastest, most reliable and secure 4G LTE network, you'll be able to:

- Plan, implement and manage your entire mobile environment
- Simplify your business' mobile transformation
- Get the most from mobile technology innovations, both now and in the future
- Mobilize your workforce more efficiently, so you can concentrate on business
- Go to market faster and improve the overall customer experience

Learn more.

To find out more about how Honeywell Enterprise Mobility can help you better manage your mobility initiatives, contact your Verizon Wireless business specialist or visit enterprise.verizon.com/contact-us.